

Morey J. Kolber PT, PhD, OCS holds a faculty appointment as a professor at Nova Southeastern University in Fort. Lauderdale, Florida where he teaches courses in orthopaedics, exercise physiology, and diagnostic imaging. He is board certified in orthopaedic physical therapy and has an interest in musculoskeletal regenerative medicine and post-procedural care. In 2018, he completed a sabbatical at the Institute of Regenerative medicine, in Boca Raton Florida and currently maintains his affiliation as a research associate. He has spoken on the topic of regenerative rehabilitation at the state, national, and international levels.